

THE SOCIETY OF THE BEE-HIVE

By MELLIFICIA. Thursday, Dec. 19, 1912.

THE Palimpsest club's annual dinner for the ladies Saturday evening at the Hotel Rome was a decided success and rarely has so many handsome costumes been seen at an evening function in this city. In fact, nearly every woman present had not only a new gown for the occasion, but also a new evening wrap, and these are creations of the dressmaker's art. There are velvets, brocades and satins, richly trimmed with furs and chiffon.

Some visitor of note is always the honor guest at the Palimpsest dinners. Prof. S. H. Clark of the University of Chicago was the honor guest at the first annual dinner party. Alfred Tennyson Dickens, son of Charles Dickens, was the honor guest at the second annual dinner party given by the Palimpsest club for the ladies, and gave an interesting talk on the life of his famous father. The guest of honor Saturday evening was Hon. Frederick William Lehmann, a prominent attorney of St. Louis.

His subject was "A Novelist of Every-Day Life." The title of his speech did not convey much to the entertainment committee, and they did not think to ask him which novelist it was. Imagine their surprise when the speaker started his discourse on the "Life of Charles Dickens."

Gillespie-Cole Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Beatrice Cole, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. N. Dorward, to Mr. LeRoy E. Gillespie was celebrated Wednesday evening at the United Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. C. Douglas officiated, assisted by Rev. Thomas Hanna.

The bride was attractively gowned in white satin chamoise with court train outlined in white marabout. The bodice was trimmed with pearls and Venetian lace, the lace also forming a panel in the skirt. The veil was held in place by lilies of the valley and she carried a shower bouquet of the same kind of flowers. The groom's gift was a crescent pin set with pearls.

Miss Blanche Buckle of Sioux City was maid of honor and wore pale yellow chamoise trimmed with lace. She wore a tulle cap of the same shade as the gown and trimmed with a yellow bird of paradise plume.

Mrs. Kenneth B. Cameron was matron of honor and wore canopy yellow chamoise with shadow lace trimming. A bird of paradise trimmed her tulle cap. The bridesmaids were Miss Marion French, gowned in carrot yellow, and Miss Wilma Bruce, who wore burnt orange chamoise. They wore tulle caps in their hair the same shade as their gowns. White ostrich tips trimmed the caps.

Each of the bride's attendants carried a shepherd's crook tied with ribbon to match the gown. A pretty settlement connected with the shepherd's crooks was the fact that Dr. Dorward's mother brought all four of them with her from Abroath, Scotland, many years ago and they have been kept in the family as heirlooms.

Little Miss Katherine Gillespie was ring-bearer and carried the ring in a yellow chrysanthemum.

The flower girls were little Misses Dorothy Graff and Elsie Holovitchner. They wore white frocks with yellow sashes.

Miss Minnie Pritchard played the wedding march and Mr. Will McCune sang "On Promise Me."

The bride's gift to the groom was a gold watch case. Gold friendship pins were given to her other attendants.

Mr. William Johnson was best man and the ushers were: Messrs. Harry Cheek, Eugene Rose, James Allen and Frank Roberts. The groom presented friendship pins to his attendants.

Following the ceremony there was a large reception at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Dorward, mother of the bride, was gowned in bronze satin trimmed with lace and velvet brocade.

The rooms were profusely decorated with cut flowers. Yellow chrysanthemums and roses were used in the reception hall and American Beauty roses and holly in the living room. The dining room was beautifully decorated with Japanese cherry blossoms and lanterns.

After a wedding trip to Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie will be at home at 2529 Evans street after January 1.

Bessey-McIvor Wedding.

A pretty church wedding was celebrated Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Castellar Street Presbyterian church when Miss Eleanor L., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McIvor, 402 S. Street, South Omaha, was married to Mr. Charles E. Bessey of Omaha. Officiating were the present and a former pastor of that church, Rev. C. C. Meek and Rev. R. H. Houseman.

The bride was gowned in white chiffon over silk and carried white roses. An maid of honor Miss Mattilda McIvor, her sister, wore lavender chiffon over silk and carried pink roses. Mr. Patrick McFadden was best man. In the evening at the home of the bride's parents a wedding supper was served to the immediate relatives. Later in the evening there was a reception. Mr. and Mrs. Bessey will reside at 154 North Twentieth street.

Bando-Parr Wedding.

Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary Magdalene's church Miss Agnes Parr, daughter of Mr. James Parr, and Mr. Will Bando, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bando, were united in marriage by Rev. Father B. Sinne.

The bride's gown was of cream-colored serge with pearl trimmings. She wore a long tulle veil and carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses. Miss Josie Prouha was bridesmaid and wore a cream-colored tulle gown and wore a band of tiny white roses in her hair. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses. Mr. Jim Bando, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Bando. Covers were laid for forty at two tables, which had as centerpieces mounds of white carnations and roses.

HAWK'S CUT GLASS—FRENZER

TO DIVIDE SUPREME COURT

Omaha Bar Association to Discuss Question Saturday Night.

OTHER QUESTIONS CONSIDERED

Lawyers Hope to Crystallize Their Recommendations Before the State Legislature Meets This Winter.

The proposition for legislation providing for the division of the supreme court of the state into two parts to facilitate the handling of the many cases ahead of the court and thus relieve the congested condition there is one of the main items that is to come up at the meeting of the Omaha Bar association at the special meeting to be held in the county court room Saturday night.

The relief of the supreme court is one of the principal matters the association has scheduled for its discussion at that time. It is held by some members of the bar here that the best way to afford relief would be to divide the court into two sections of three and four judges, respectively, so that the two sections could work on separate and distinct cases at the same time. Those who advocate this method of relief would provide that three judges could make a decision. In the case of the section of the court with four judges this would mean the votes of all but one for a decision.

Another matter on which some of the attorneys are priming themselves is whether or not a constitutional convention should be called. It is held by some that our state constitution is obsolete; that it was made when the industries of the state were as yet undeveloped and consequently is inadequate to fit the present conditions of the great commonwealth of Nebraska.

"For example," C. J. Smyth has pointed out, "under the present constitution the attorney general is not allowed a clerk. It is ridiculous. The only way the supreme court has got around that is it has held that a stenographer was not a clerk and consequently the attorney general hires stenographers to do the large amount of work in the office, which it is ridiculously out of the question to expect the attorney general to do alone."

The Omaha Bar association has called the special meeting for Saturday night that the important questions it is considering might be threshed out before the legislature convenes, so that its recommendations might be ready to be presented to that body. A card, being mailed to the members of the bar in Omaha announcing the meeting, sets forth the following points to be discussed at that time:

1. How can the supreme court congestion be relieved?
2. Should less than twelve jurors render a verdict in civil cases?
3. Should a constitutional convention be called?
4. Should the law with respect to challenges of jurors in criminal cases be changed?
5. Should the state be permitted to call the defendant as a witness in a criminal case?
6. Other proposed changes by members.

It is held by many members of the bar that it would be useless to discuss the matter of giving the state the right to call a defendant as a witness in a criminal case, as the federal constitution provides that a defendant in such a case shall not be compelled to testify against himself.

Band to Parade to Advertise Charity Wrestling Match

Omaha Musicians' association with a fifty-piece band will parade the streets today from 1:30 until 7 o'clock in the afternoon to advertise the Charity Wrestling carnival to be held at the Auditorium tonight for the benefit of the city mission.

Again in the evening the band will play on the streets, proceeding at 8:30 o'clock to the Auditorium, where it will give selections between the wrestling events. While the band plays women who have volunteered to help Miss Nellie Magee, head of the mission, distribute tickets, will be on the street corners.

Manager Gillan of the Auditorium said seats are selling well. The box office was opened Wednesday morning and will be open until the carnival is ended. Ezra Millard, treasurer of the mission, will be on hand on the evening of the match to see Manager Gillan and the committee "count the house" and receive the money. The count cannot begin until about 10:30 o'clock. If it is finished before the carnival is ended the money will be presented to Miss Magee or some officer of the mission on the wrestling platform.

All the wrestlers have sent word that they will be on hand to do their parts. Jack Meyer, who will go on with Adolph Ernst, light heavy-weight champion, if Ernst can get here, said he never felt better in his life and he will put up the best match in his career.

Peter Loch, who is financing the carnival, returned to Omaha last night and will spend today arranging the details of the program. Mr. Loch two days ago was called to Manning, Ia., by the death of his brother.

A Dying Race

Someone said the only good Indian is a dead one—We do not subscribe to that statement—for we believe that there are many noble Red men—and there would be more if they had been saved from coming in contact with the worst of the White men. Before the onward march of civilization, however, they seem doomed to go, as assimilation seems scarcely possible.

The Navajos, belonging to the Athabascan family, first became known to the Spaniards in 1630—an effort to reduce them failed until they ran up against Colonel Carson—something like 20,000 remain scattered over Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico and Utah. Many have shown much aptitude in taking up the arts of civilization. They carry on farming and stock raising. They have been famous for centuries in the manufacture of Navajo Rugs, Blankets, etc. Soon, like the race that too will die, the art will be a lost one. Indeed, even now it is difficult to get choice pieces for those of the present generation do not possess the patience of their ancestors.

We have on display on our third floor some choice specimens, all selected personally by Mr. Chapman, on the reservation—guaranteed by us to be genuine hand woven in the Hogans or Tepees of the Navajos. One especially fine piece was admired by Colonel Roosevelt when he toured that country several years ago. It was then in the possession of a judge, who was prominent in the fight for statehood made by New Mexico. An effort was made, it is said, to copy it, but it failed utterly—the right hand seemed to have forgot its cunning. There are also some fine old vegetable dye blankets and they too, will soon be a thing of the past. The prices will be found reasonable, ranging from $1 for small pieces, up to $200

NURSES ASK CITY FOR CASH

Association Wants Help in Tuberculosis Campaign.

HAVING MANY CALLS FOR AID

Miss McPherson Reports Thirty-Eight Requests for Help Have Been Refused Because of Lack of Funds.

Miss Louise McPherson, president of the Visiting Nurse association, has written the city council asking for a small appropriation to aid in the tuberculosis campaign being waged by that organization. The request has been referred to Commissioner Ryder, who will report on it.

Miss McPherson says that reports of thirty-eight tuberculosis cases have been received and help refused because there is no money with which to employ trained aid.

Since the formation of the Visiting Nurse association 259 cases of tuberculosis have been cared for by the nurses not only visiting and caring for the patients, but going into the homes and attempting to remedy sanitary conditions.

Of the 259 cases cared for only nine have been transients. Fifty-six were sent to hospitals.

"It is an alarming condition," said Mayor Dahlman when the request for help was referred to the commissioner of police, sanitation and health.

Special Election to Name Charter Committee Called

The city council has called a special election, upon request of Mayor Dahlman, to be held Tuesday, March 11, for the purpose of giving the voters a chance to choose fifteen freeholders to comprise a charter committee which will draft a new charter for this city.

The amendment giving Omaha home rule, which was carried at the last election, provides that a committee of fifteen hold open and public sessions and frame such legislation as in their wisdom they believe will meet the needs of the public.

Civic and commercial organizations will be invited to make suggestions and individuals will be heard by the committee, which probably will be in session several weeks.

A primary election will be held February 11, when the fifteen members to be voted on March 11 will be nominated.
